

International College of Prosthodontists

Organizational Membership

Applying for Organizational Membership

- An Individual may not apply for Organizational Membership.
- An Organization may apply for Organizational Membership in the ICP on behalf of the constituent membership of their organization.
- Application by an organization for Organizational Membership in the ICP must be made by the executive of that organization
- The application form for Organizational Membership can be found on the ICP website at: www.icp-org.com

What is an Organizational Membership?

Organizational Membership provides an organization with opportunity to participate in the ICP as an organization. Organizational Membership does not provide an individual member of an organization with any form of membership in the ICP. Individual constituent members of an Organizational Member must hold membership in the ICP in order to participate in the ICP.

Benefits of Organizational Membership

1. Cooperation between organizations dedicated to international promotion of the specialty of Prosthodontics
2. Recognition of the Member Organization by the ICP in the ICP website.
3. Recognition of ICP Organizational membership by the Member Organization on their website and other promotional materials as determined acceptable by the ICP
4. Potential to co-host conferences and workshops in collaboration with the ICP
5. Publishing of Organizational Member announcements, news and photographs in the Organizational Member section of the ICP newsletter
6. Participation in the Advisory Council of Organizational Members (ACOM)
7. ICP and Organizational Members mutually promoting each others organizations and activities:
 - ICP assistance with promotion of Member Organizations conferences and activities on the ICP website.
 - Visual communications such as power point presentations to respective conference bodies Printed materials to be placed on a display table at conferences and other meetings.

Responsibilities of Organizational Membership

1. Encouraging members to submit papers to the other's meetings
2. Submit manuscripts to official journal (IJP)
3. Provide the notification to the membership of the Organizational Membership regarding ICP conferences and workshops.
4. Nominate a delegate to ACOM